Allies Abandon

They are bound to overrun some of us.

"You just have got to kill them. That's the only thing—stick and kill them."

Soule is commander of the U. S. Third Division. Its American, Puerto Rican and South Korean infantrymen with their backs to the sea are defending the tiny U. S. 10th Corps sector in the Hamhung-Hungnam port area.

Security Blackout

An army security blackout continued to blanket reports of Allied troops not engaged in combat operations.

For the third straight day the Chinese have thrown thrusting attacks against the Allied line, probing for a weak spot.

Staff officers said the big Chinese offensive aimed to knock out the 10th Corps may come within the next 48 hours.

While doughboys fought off Communist assaults or crouched in snow-lined foxholes awaiting attack, the navy's big guns pounded Communist troops swarming along the coastal roads converging on Hungnam.

Ground forces fought off three sea-borne attacks Saturday. The teds hit near Oro, six miles north-west of Hamhung, and Chigyoung, six miles southwest of Hamhung.

"Not Disastrous"

A 10th Corps spokesman said the attacks "are being contained" and described the situation as "not disastrous."

Army engineers destroyed great stores of supplies to keep them from falling into Communist hands.

Associated Press Correspondent Ian Swinton reported from the beachhead that some members of the 10th Corps platoons cut off Friday by the Chinese returned to Allied lines last night.

One Third Division Regiment reported it killed 1,000 Reds Friday in hurling back a single attack.

CALLS PEARSON COMMIE VOICE

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Drew Pearson have clashed again—this time in a word battle over communism.

McCarthy declared in the Senate late yesterday that Pearson serves as "this voice of international communism." He called the columnist-commentator a "Moscow-directed character assassin."

Pearson retorted in a statement that his record "in fighting Communism: x x x is well known to every one—except the headline happy Senator from Wisconsin." He threatened to sue McCarthy.

McCarthy said "It appears that Pearson never actually signed up as a member of the Communist party and paid dues," then added, "However, that hasn't in any way affected his value to the party x x x."

Had Fight In Club

The verbal exchange was a sequel to a physical scuffle at the swank Sulgrave club Tuesday night. Pearson said McCarthy kicked him in the groin after some words in the cloak room of the club. McCarthy's version was that he smacked Pearson hard with his open hand and knocked him down.

It's no secret around the capitol that McCarthy has been angry at Pearson for a long time because of the columnist's criticism of him. It started during the Senate investigation of McCarthy's Communist-in-government charges.

In his speech yesterday, McCarthy—who told reporters he had been preparing it for weeks—called Pearson an "unprincipled liar and a fake," and a man of "twisted, perverted mentality." He said Pearson "has been and is doing an infinite amount of damage to America."

MIXED DRINKS

With U. S. Third Division in Korea, Dec. 16 (AP)—The password was "Scotch and Soda." They picked up a captain during the night and hauled him in for questioning. When challenged by a sentry he mumbled "Bourbon and Water."

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—The House appropriations committee Friday urged Congress to grant the entire $16,345,180 asked by President Truman to speed up national defense. It did not cut a single penny from any of the extra funds requested for defense after Chinese Communist forces launched their successful offensive in North Korea.

bright, Lewis Seiss, Elmer Bollinger, Charles Eckenrode, Preston Favorite and W. O. Shank.

Personal Mention

William Simpson and Robert Simpson have been invited to join the Community chorus which will sing Handel's Messiah in the Thirteenth high school auditorium on December 26, at 8:15 p.m. under the direction of Miss Mildred Trevett.

The Chapel choir of Elias Evangelical Lutheran church will hold two rehearsals next week, Tuesday and Thursday nights at 7 o'clock, in preparation for Christmas Sunday and the Annual New Year's Eve service to be held in the church from 11 o'clock to midnight, Sunday night, December 31.

Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Dillon, Mt. Saint Mary's, spent several days last week visiting in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bollinger had as their week-end guest, Mrs. Donald Pentier, of Helethorpe.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton G. Springer have purchased the Mr. and Mrs. George S. Ohler farm near Emmitsburg.

vocated even stronger measures than the President planned, among them across-the-board price and wage controls.

Controls Are Coming

The President said that the government "is starting at once to impose price controls upon a number of materials and products." He said these will be mainly items important to defense production and the cost of living.

That could cover such products as automobiles, where the government's efforts to halt price increases not only were rejected by General Motors and Ford, but followed with boasts by Chrysler and Nash.

Cost-of-living items conceivably could include food and clothing but there was nothing definite on this from official quarters.

The President said where price controls are clamped on, "the government will also undertake to stabilize wages, as the law requires."

Must Set High Targets

The President's announcement that he had ordered the budget director to cut non-military spending "to the minimum required to give effective support to the defense effort" struck a popular note in Congress. Lawmakers also applauded his assertion that there will have to be cutbacks in "many lines of civilian production."

The President said the speedup program will "make a lot of changes in our ordinary ways of doing things."

We must set very high targets and be willing to make an all-out effort to reach them," he declared. "Workers will be called upon to work more hours. More women and more young people and older workers will be needed in our plants and factories. Farmers will have to set higher production goals. Businessmen will have to put all their know-how to work to increase production."

Says Peace Is Possible

Throughout his speech, Mr. Truman maintained that peace is still possible despite the "danger created by the rulers of the Soviet Union."

"Though the present situation is highly dangerous, we do not believe that war is inevitable," he said. "There is no conflict between the legitimate interests of the free world and those of the Soviet Union that cannot be settled by peaceful means. We will continue to take every honorable step we can to avoid general war. But we will not engage in appeasement."

He said that Secretary Acheson, flying to Europe Sunday, will join with representatives of other nations in arrangements for setting up a joint army, navy and air force to defend Europe.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is scheduled to command such a force.

GHS DOWNS RED LION FOR 1ST CAGE TRIUMPH

After a ragged first half which found them trailing 16-14, the Gettysburg high school cagers pulled themselves together in the final two periods to defeat Red Lion here Friday evening 41-29.

Gettysburg was limited to but three field goals in the first half, all of which came in the opening four minutes. They went scoreless from the field for 12 minutes after Jack Bream had knotted the score at 7-7 with a goal midway in the first period. It was not until Dick Harriel, high point man of the evening, abated a goal shortly after the second half got underway that the Warriors could tally another twin-point.

The first quarter ended 9-9 when Bill Williams knotted the score with a free toss in the closing seconds. Charley Ford, a letterman, drew his first assignment of the season in the second period after being out with a fractured ankle and caged three goals as well as giving a good account of himself to indicate he will soon be ready for full time duty. Additional fouls by Saunders and Harriel accounted for all of the locals' points while the Lions gained 16-14 half time lead on goals by Dolewiler and Grove, a pair of fouls by Stutler and another charity toss by Hoffman.

Locals Take Leads
The Forneymen quickly took the lead in the third period on goals by Harriel and Skinner. Grove tied the score with a long chuck and another goal by Harriel put Gettysburg in front. A pair of goals by Swope and two fouls by Harriel sent the Warriors ahead 28-22 at the close of the round.

Harriel, Swope, McCormick and Williams each tallied from the field in the final period as the Warriors moved far ahead and then reserves from both benches took the floor. Ross Sachs' Jayvees trailed 14-11 at half time but connected for 26 points in the last half to cop the preliminary tilt 37-19. John Carter added 16 points for the winners.

Delone Here Tuesday
On Tuesday the Warriors will play their third straight home game with Delone as their opponents. Next Thursday a return game will be played with York high at York.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Returning travelers from St. Petersburg say there were definite indications of coolness between Commissioner Happy Chandler and baseball secretary Walter Mulberry before the great ouster move went through.

But the reason remains a mystery. . . . Paul O'Leary, the young Bismarck, N. D., golfer who was rapidly becoming one of the most prominent tournament competitors, is scheduled to be inducted into the Army January 8. . . . In two years on the trail, Paul has won approximately $5,800. Barney Ross is returning to the restaurant business in a New York spot which opens Monday. . . . Luke Easter, the Indians big first baseman, has signed on as traveling secretary of the Harlem Globetrotters. . . . The Trotters, incidentally, have been playing to sellout crowds every night since they started their tour and owner Abe Saperstein is at a loss to explain such interest when the amusement business in general is in a decline.

In the preliminary contest the York Springs reserves lost 39-33. York Springs will be host to Quincy on Tuesday.

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

UNDRESS YOUR MIND!

We all know how the body becomes relaxed and ready for sleep at night when the clothes of the day have been removed and the sleeping garments put on. But there can really be little, or genuine, rest and "pleasant dreams" unless the mind, too, throws off its garments of the day, undressing itself, as the body has done.

And this undressing of the mind would include the throwing off of all worries, all unhappy memories, all discouragement, and all regrets. How very many of us over-dress our minds habitually, during the day, so that it becomes that much more difficult to undress and free it when Morpheus whispers!

This undressing of the mind should be a freeing process, relieving it of its burdens, its sorrows, and its fears. The traveler goes farthest with light equipment. Likewise the mind enters its rest for the night with the greatest calm when it has nothing to weigh it down.

When sorrow comes, with the mind overburdened, we need but the clothing of love, wrapped in understanding, to give this mind of ours its perfect peace in faith. Those whom we love, and God, alone can assuage and give comfort. No other garments for the mind at such a time seem fitting or essential. Undressed it is, under the stars of hope.

We can undress our minds to beauty, allowing its free air to cool and healthify the substance of our thoughts, divorcing those things that disturb and confuse, leaving behind courage and the will to go on in better heart.

The mind, clothed in happy thoughts and generous impulses, goes to its rest at night with the lightest of garments—adequate and prepared for comfort. Then it is that the heart sends out its rhythmic beats in unison with the Infinite Mind freely and undisturbed. Undress your mind as you undress your body. Unify your life with that of God and nature, and a new light will appear to you, like a newly discovered star in the sky!

FEMININE TRAIT

How comes it that a woman sees
So many simple things like these:
A flower fading and a rug awry
Which without notice man walks by?

A wrinkle in a ribbon she will note.
A tiny bit of thread upon a coat.
A book left open where it shouldn't be,
A lamp shade slightly tilted she will see.

No imperfection, however slight
But she will promptly move to set it right
And all the flaws to which a man is blind
A woman, with a single glance, will find.

GOP DELEGATION DEMANDS THAT ACHESON QUIT

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—The formal demand of Republican congressmen that President Truman fire Secretary of State Acheson hit walls of silence today at the White House and State department.

Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois told the Senate late yesterday that the Republican party stand for immediate removal of the secretary of state was "an invitation to Stalin to strike anywhere."

Lucas referred to the resolution adopted earlier in the day by an overwhelming voice vote taken in a House Republican caucus. The resolution was proposed by House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts, House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) called it "a tragic mistake."

Not Going To Quit

While Lucas was talking, Senate Republicans by a 23 to 5 vote in a closed door conference adopted the three-paragraph House statement, but added to it a reserved pledge of cooperation drafted by Senator Taft of Ohio, the Senate GOP policy chieftain.

The White House and the State department declined to comment. But Mr. Truman said last night, in his report to the nation on new mobilization goals, that Acheson will fly to Europe Sunday to join representatives of other nations in setting up armed defenses for western Europe.

Mr. Truman has said repeatedly in the past that he intends to keep Acheson. The President also has the reputation of backing his appointees and friends against congressional attacks.

How he would react to the overwhelming Republican vote on the resolutions was a wide open question here. Acheson has said he has no intention of resigning.

PA. DEMOCRATS ARE SHAKEN BY DILWORTH TALK

Harrisburg, Dec. 16 (AP)—The extent of Democratic unity in the 1951 Legislature was a moot question today in the wake of Richardson Dilworth's fiery denunciation of his own party.

Dilworth used a string of adjectives ranging from "stupid" to "terrible" in describing two separate actions of Democratic lawmakers at a party caucus here Thursday.

The Philadelphia city treasurer and defeated gubernatorial candidate assailed what he termed a "ganging-up" by the big Philadelphia and Allegheny county delegations against rural members in choosing a House minority whip.

"Mustn't Say We're Licked"

Rep. John F. Stank (Northumberland) was unseated by Rep. Joseph A. Scanlon (Philadelphia) in an unexpected fight for the post.

And on a second point, Dilworth criticized the failure of House Democrats to put up an opposition ticket to the GOP for the office of speaker, chief clerk and secretary of the House.

Although any such opposition would be only token since Republicans have enough votes to elect their candidates to the leadership posts, Dilworth said: "We shouldn't say, 'We're licked and to heck with it.'"

And speaking of the Philadelphia-Allegheny county combination which holds 48 of the 87 Democratic seats in the House, Dilworth added: "We've got to try and see that Philadelphia and Pittsburgh won't hog the show."

Immediate Reaction

The reaction to Dilworth's speech was immediate:

Rep. H. G. Andrews (Cambria), elected House minority leader for another session, indicated he would look to Philadelphia Democratic City Chairman James A. Finnegan—and not Dilworth—for advice concerning Philadelphia legislative matters.

"If Mr. Dilworth desires to castigate the Philadelphia delegation in the House, that is a Philadelphia matter. However, as minority floor leader I much prefer that such castigation be delivered privately," Andrews said.

The Cambria county lawmaker said that Dilworth forgot that he appeared before the caucus "as a courtesy rather than as a right."

Finnegan declined all comment on Dilworth's remarks, as did Maurice Spahn, Jr., Democratic state chairman, both of whom also addressed the otherwise harmonious session.

In addition to Andrews and Scanlon, the House caucus elected two other officers, including Rep. Albert S. Readinger (Berks) as caucus chairman and Miss Genevieve Blatt, Democratic state committee secretary, as caucus secretary.

The Democratic Senate caucus was quiet in comparison. Sen. John H. Dent (Westmoreland) was named minority floor leader; Sen. John J. Haluska (Cambria) as minority whip, and Sen. Frank W. Ruth as caucus chairman.

Dent said Democratic senators won't take up the question of an opposition slate for Senate officer posts until its next caucus just before the reorganization of the 1951 Legislature on January 2.

Riding with Russell

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
member S.A.E.

Judging by the difficulty some pedestrians have in jumping out of the way of cars all they get out of their palms is lament.

Ahead 'o Yesterday

If you want to know which way the automobile is going to jump just take a glance into the rear-view mirror and see what it was in the "good old days."

That's the advice now being offered by one who believes he has discovered the short cut to prophecies of so-called new trends. He has a lot of ammunition to back up his argument. Wrap-around bumpers are little more than a modern version of the side bumpers offered by the long lamented Stutz. Electrical fuel pumps are back again, but they were used before the mechanical pump. Years ago it was smart to buy an "assembled car yet today there is some suggestion of a return to this system for any new cars that may come on the market. Sure, they will be carrying the spare on the back, outside, just as they used to, or in fender wells at the sides. Roof racks are likely to be standard equipment in the near future.

True to form the automobile is running in a cycle. A lot of scenery is coming up for reappraisal.

One for the Book

When the brake pedal is slow returning to the "up" position most owners fear the worse and often go all out for detours when trying to fathom the meaning of this condition. Just in the interest of a peaceful settlement of such matters be it recorded that so simple a thing as a dry pedal bushing may be the cause of this action. Since the bushing is likely to be rubber better use a little brake fluid as a lubricant. This won't damage it, and will free up the pedal.

Taking Out the Snap

Don't put this down as a definite remedy for the annoying cracking sound which sometimes appears in the rear end of cars with Hotchkis drive, but one reader tells me that he thinks he solved it by cleaning out the splines at the forward end of the propeller shaft. These are the splines which accommodate the shaft for slight variations in wheel-base as the car starts off, goes over rough spots or comes to a stop. His theory is that a combination of lubricants on these splines causes them to become tacky, or very gummy. The effect is a cracking sound. He believes he cured it by cleaning the splines and lubricating them with a much lighter oil. Anyhow, the noise is gone.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"Next time you lift the hood and give the engine a clean bill of health, just because everything looks all right, remember that perhaps you'll notice something out of the ordinary if you happen to observe it after it has been running. One of my customers saw nothing wrong on first glance, but after running the motor and then taking a look he discovered a portion of the generator belt was broken off. This had been completely hidden from view.

"It just goes to show that you can't be too careful. My pal who does the wheel balancing around here calls my system "dynamic checking."

Charging Too Much?

Probably this doesn't happen too often but if the battery always tests near the fully charged limit, and provided water evaporates from the cells frequently, the indications are that overcharging is taking place.

This can be offset by more generous use of the car's radio, or by more frequent use of the starter motor. Should this overcharged state come to light on a trip, and there is no opportunity to have a current regulator adjustment, you can use the headlights in daytime. I prefer greater use of the starter.

Another Point Of Saving

Parking the car on an upgrade is one way of saving excessive rusting of the tail pipe for in this position the pipe is able to drain when condensation begins as it cools off. The tail pipe on one car which has shown no deterioration over a period of years slants downward. This does not decrease road clearance, but the driver is careful to take note of this. Checking short runs with the car is another effective way to reduce the amount of condensation, not merely in the exhaust system but in the engine's crankcase as well.

So you're having trouble with the clutch slipping? So I have not as yet been able to give you the right diagnosis? Maybe, I'm slipping myself, or possibly it is just the result of this sort of trouble. Here's the list.

The hub may bind on the clutch splines. There may be a bent or warped pressure plate, incorrect pedal free play, an incorrectly aligned pressure plate, worn or distorted release levers, a bent or worn driven plate, poor lining, or binding between springs. Or — and this is quite important — it may be due to the owner's driving habits.

How's That Rattle?

One of the odd but annoying troubles that develops with the mechanical clutch is a rattling sound which scares a lot of motorists into thinking that they are due for a breakdown and tow. Actually this sort of trouble never lets you down, which at least is comforting. What causes the rattle in majority of cases is merely improper alignment between the engine, clutch and transmission.

Ripley would have found something of interest in the fuel filtering system in one of the current cars whereby all the driver has to do is pour in a gallon of water. This causes the gasoline remaining in the bottom of the tank to rise to the level necessary to reach the fuel line. Here gasoline passes through a filter so efficient that not a drop of water can get by. With this little additional fuel the car can be driven to the next filling station, where the water is drained from the tank before fresh fuel is added. A special drain at the bottom of the tank provides for this simple draining.

What's On Your Mind?

Q. What would cause the engine of my car to lose power and hesitate climbing hills? These are not necessarily steep hills. The engine doesn't overheat.—H. N. McK.

A. Check for an air leak in the short flexible line that runs between the fuel line and the pump. Air sucked in here has the effect of mild vapor lock when the engine is being worked at speed or on a grade.

Q. The current regulator seems to be working properly, but in spite of servicing the generator the charging rate still is too low. The ammeter also indicates that the charging rate is unsteady. Have checked the generator drive belt.—H. F. C.

A. This looks like a case of loose battery terminals.

Q. What's wrong when brakes continue to drag even after increasing the clearance? The drum of the brake in question isn't warped?—N. K. Jr.

A. There may be high spots on the linings of this brake.

Q. I have noticed that it takes longer to get the engine started than it did last winter. In fact, looking back this starting delay has been steadily growing more noticeable.—J. L. McB.

A. The old timers will tell you this clearly indicates need for a good tune-up job on the motor.

Q. Is it possible for a rear tire to wear more on one side of the tread than another?—T. H.

A. Definitely. And such wear indicates that the rear axle housing may be sprung. At any rate it is due to misalignment or rear end of frame.

Q. I have been told that there will be excessive oil consumption in a motor if the crankcase vents are clogged. What would cause this?—Wm. L. L.

A. When a crankcase can't "breathe" properly pressure builds up. This forces oil to pump up past the rings and burn off. It will also force oil to seek escape in other ways, such as past the rear main bearing, up-around the distributor shaft and out the front of the engine around the damper.

Q. There is terrific chatter when I go to back up my car and, sometimes, when starting in low gear.

Pace frankly advised the House Military Appropriations subcommittee that a $16,844,000,000 emergency defense money request before the House today was outmoded before Congress got a chance to act on it.

Santa and the COWBOY

AP Newsfeatures By LUCRECE HUDGINS

CHAPTER 12
TRACKING THE WOZZLE

Santa gasped at the name of Herman the Wozzie. Even Lonesome Boy's face turned pale and he trembled at his father's words.

"Got!" ordered Chief Hurricane. "Bring tail of Herman the Wozzie."

"Who is it? What is it?" whispered Bucky, tugging at Santa's sleeve. "Why do you look so sad?"

"Ah, said Santa. "No one who ever hunted Herman the Wozzie came back alive. He is half bird and half animal with the tail of a snake. He runs faster than a rabbit. He roars louder than the ocean. He is stronger than a thousand strongest men."

"I am a good shot," said Bucky cheerfully. "At home, with my cork gun, I hit the target nearly every time."

Santa shook his head. "A cork gun would never hurt the Wozzie. You need a strong bow and an arrow tipped with silver. I can make you such a bow and arrow. But your heart must be unafraid or no weapon can help you."

Bucky thought for a moment. "I am afraid," he said finally. "But maybe I will forget to be afraid when I see this creature. I will try anyway for I am a cowboy and cowboys must be brave."

Santa took Bucky to his cottage and sat before the fire with the boy at his feet. Santa whittled on a young sapling until he had finished a bow.

Then he cut an arrow and tipped it with purest silver which he melted and shaped in the fire. When he had finished he woke Bucky who had fallen asleep against his knee.

"I've been dreaming," said Bucky deeply. "I dreamed I was home with my mother and that I was tired of playing cowboy."

Santa smiled. "You know, Bucky, I hope that dream will soon come true," he said. "Now here is your bow and here is your arrow."

"What!" cried Bucky. "Only one arrow?"

"Yes," said Santa sadly. "You'll never get a chance to shoot but once."

When they went out they found Lonesome Boy saying goodbye to his people. The Jindian carried a bow and a bag full of arrows slung from his shoulder. He looked at Bucky, and for the first time there was no meanness in his look.

"Let's go," said Bucky. The two boys got on their horses and rode away.

They had not left Santa Land very far behind when Lonesome Boy stopped and pointed at tracks in the snow—the strangest tracks Bucky had ever dreamed of. There were two prints like the webbed feet of a duck—but a duck with feet larger than an elephant. Behind these tracks was a long furrow that seemed to have been made by a snake twisting through the snow.

Twenty feet away was another such track. As the boys pushed on, they found another and another. On they hunted until they came to the edge of a cliff which fell a hundred feet to the sea. Here the trail disappeared. The boys searched but found no tracks at all.

Lonesome Boy pointed down to the rocks piled on the beach far below. Bucky nodded. If the creature they hunted was anywhere he was somewhere among those rocks.

There in front of the cave was the missing track.

Without saying a word, the boys got off their horses and began climbing down to the sea. They crawled backwards, clutching at the side of the cliff with their hands and feet. They slipped and slid and tore their hands and scraped their faces.

When they were near the bottom they dropped to the rocks and rose bruised and shaken.

Lonesome Boy had spilled all his arrows but Bucky's one arrow was safe. When he helped the Jindian find his arrows among the rocks, Lonesome Boy did not speak but smiled as though to say "Thank You."

Suddenly they found themselves standing before a huge hole. In front of the hole was the missing track.

Bucky's heart pounded. His legs grew weak. Lonesome Boy calmly put an arrow into his bow. "I'm a cowboy," Bucky told himself. "I can't let him see I'm afraid."

So he held his bow ready. The two boys walked together into the great black hole.

Wounded Soldier May Visit Home

Pfc. Kenneth B. Klinedinst, who received combat wounds in the Korean fighting, may be able to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents at East Berlin, according to word received by the parents.

The youth, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Klinedinst, was wounded when a piece of shrapnel pierced his ankle. He was removed to the Naval hospital in Philadelphia and recently was able to spend a few days with his parents. Now he has hopes of being home for Christmas.

If he is permitted to leave the hospital, his parents said, a triple birthday party will be held at their home for him, his brother, Donald, and his sister, Miriam, all of whose birthdays occur in December.

Littlestown SOCIETY HOLDS SPECIAL EVENT

"Bethlehem, Then and Now" was the theme of the annual Christmas party of the Alta Hammer Missionary society of St. John's Lutheran church at the home of Mrs. Paul E. King, near Littlestown, on Thursday evening. The meeting opened with the playing of recorded Christmas music and a candle-lighting service by the group. The topic discussion of "Bethlehem, Then and Now" was led by Mrs. Paul E. King, who also read the aims of the topic. The poem, "It Isn't Far to Bethlehem" was read by Miss Evelyn Asper. The group sang "O Little Town of Bethlehem," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Lloyd L. Staveland, who served as pianist for the evening. The scripture, Luke 2:15-16 was read followed with a reading, "Dear Little Child," by Mrs. Preston L. Myers. "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" was sung by the group after which Mrs. Paul E. King read "O Holy Child."

"Joy to the World" was sung by the group and readings, "O Holy Babe," by Mrs. Lloyd L. Staveland; "Bethlehem, Then," by Mrs. Raymond Reinaman, and "Bethlehem Today," by Mrs. Edwin Harget. The question, "What of Religion in Bethlehem," was read by Mrs. Paul E. King and the answer was given by Mrs. William Lippy. The story telling where Jesus was born was read by Mrs. Harry O. Harner. The readings, "The Star Will Shine" were read by Mrs. Samuel Renner and Mrs. Edgar A. Wolfe. A reading, "Christmas Greetings from a Missionary in Bethlehem," was given by Mrs. George Trump. Mrs. Kenneth D. James read "A Message Coming to Us from the Holy Land." A prayer was offered by Mrs. Paul E. King. The second chapter of Matthew was read and a special offering was received.

The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. Paul E. King. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Samuel Renner. Mrs. Kenneth D. James and Mrs. Alvin Groff were appointed as auditors for the coming year. The nominating committee for class officers for 1951 is composed of Mrs. Kathryn Hull, Mrs. Frank Hollinger and Mrs. Elmo

Jones. Anyone wishing to donate clothing for the drive being conducted by the United Lutheran Church of America is asked to leave it at the church not later than Wednesday afternoon. The ladies of the society will meet at that time to pack it for shipment. The meeting closed with the group singing "While Shepherds Watch Their Flocks" and the missionary benediction. The next meeting of the society will be held Thursday, January 12, at the home of Mrs. Harry O. Harner, Lumber street. Mrs. George Cool will lead the topic discussion.

Approximately 100 were present at the annual roast turkey banquet for the personnel of the Littlestown Junior-senior high school. Mrs. Ralph I. Unger was in charge of the preparation of the meal, which was served on Friday evening by the girls of the high school in the cafeteria. Members of the joint board, teachers, bus drivers and other school personnel were present. Dr. Daniel Beimesberger, president of Millersville State Teachers' college was the principal speaker of the evening. Dr. Beimesberger spoke on

It's the easiest laundering shirt ever because it practically irons itself. The sensational Van Heusen Century has a soft collar that needs no starch...has no inner linings or stitched layers that can possibly wrinkle. And the fold line is woven in so that it can only fold on the fold line. Here's the shirt women go for too, because it looks neat on a man day and night...and because it launders so beautifully. In wide-spread or regular collar models.

XMAS PARTIES
TAKING PLACE

A Christmas party with approximately 100 in attendance was held Friday evening for the Primary department of St. Luke's Union Sunday school, White Hall. The scripture read and the group sang, "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Silent Night," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Arlene Krumrine. Prayer was offered by Mrs. John H. Hartlaub. Games were played, contests enjoyed, and prizes awarded to the children. Santa Claus arrived and presented gifts to each person present. The program committee for the party was composed of Mrs. Glenn Mayer, chairman, Mrs. Fred Breighner and Mrs. Kenneth Dayhoff. Mrs. Hazel Flickinger, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Flickinger and Mrs. Fred Hartlaub comprised the decorating committee.

Mrs. Edward H. Leister, West Myrtle street, was hostess to the Mothers' Sunday school class of St. Mary's Reformed church, Silver Run, for the annual Christmas party on Thursday evening at her home. Mrs. Pauline Stoness, president, was in charge of the program. The Christmas story was told in scripture and songs by Mrs. Stanley Dutterer, Mrs. Wade Brown and Mrs. Howard Bowman.

During the business session new class officers for the coming year were elected. They are: Mrs. Alvin Dutterer, Jr., president; Mrs. James Dutterer, vice president; Mrs. Howard Bowman, secretary; Mrs. Melvin Hollinger, assistant secretary; Mrs. William Brown, Jr., treasurer. The class will remember all sick and shut-ins of the parish with potted plants during the Christmas season. Santa Claus distributed gifts, at which time "secret sisters" were revealed. The names were then drawn for new "sisters" during 1951.

Christmas records were played during the course of the evening and refreshments were served buffet style by the hostess to the 28 members and three visitors present. The January meeting of the Mothers' class will be held at the home of Mrs. Alvin Dutterer, near Silver Run on Friday, January 12.

The Woman's Community club of Littlestown and vicinity will meet on Wednesday evening at 7:45 p.m. in the POS of A hall. There will be a Christmas party and exchange of gifts. The program committee for the evening is composed of Mrs. Anna B. Leach, chairman, Mrs. Leon H. Gage, Mrs. John LeGore, Mrs. John H. Fleming, Miss LeOra Held, Mrs. Chester S. Byers, Mrs. Carroll Arter, Mrs. Robert H. Miller, Mrs. George P. Smith and Mrs. Clayton L. Evans. Those serving on the hostess committee are Mrs. Ralph R. Stanwyck-Taylor
Romance Crashes

Hollywood, Dec. 16 (AP)—One of Hollywood's more stable marriages—the 11-year union of Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor—is headed for the divorce courts.

The couple announced yesterday: "We are deeply disappointed but we could not solve our problems. We really tried. There will be a California divorce. Neither of us has any other romantic interest whatsoever."

Thus, by mutual consent, ends the idyl of Brooklyn-born Ruby Stevens and Nebraska-born Spangler Arlington Brugh, who came off the campus of Pomona (Calif.) college to upbeat the hearts of feminine moviegoers in the mid '30s.

Miss Stanwyck is 43, Taylor 39. They have no children.

The reason for the breakup was stated simply. "In the past few years because of professional requirements we have been separated just too often and too long."
